5. Review, discussion, and any action of the Revision to the Subdivision Regulations

Tracy Homfeld had passed out a summary of the revisions being made to the Subdivision Regulations along with the Floodplain Regulations, Drainage Design Manual, and County Road Standards. She had shared the minor changes since their last meeting. Bill Cox inquired if any developer input had been sought. Tracy stated she has a group of developers she plans to send to for input. Joe recommended that the 'draft' be watermarked so that no one was confused with the status of the document. Bill Moore inquired with anything staff thought would raise a concern. Tracy stated that the drainage requirements will probably be a concern to some developers. Tracy also stated she thought Commissioner Williams would look at them carefully because she is familiar with development and has some strong opinions about what the County can and cannot do.

At 6:28 p.m. County Judge, Chris Hill entered the room. He departed at 6:35 p.m.

Tracy commented that the drainage requirements were tightened up in the new plan. Tracy stated she would resend the document(s) to the board members with the 'draft' watermark. Shep stated he wanted the opportunity at the next meeting to make a formal recommendation. Bill Moore asked if the regulations were good for the next 30 years. Tracy responded yes. Clarence stated 'as best we know of today in rural area'. Bill Moore asked what the concern is with Clarence responding 'no voluntary annexation allowed'. Bill Moore asked 'are you being aggressive as possible'? Tracy responded 'no, roads can't be concrete.' There was no action for this item. It will be a future item on the next agenda.
