CC Coalition Member Sachse Historical Society

The Society chartered April 5, 1989, had always been looking for a place to call home and provide the citizens of Sachse a permanent location to display historical items. On April 21, 1998, City Council agreed that Sachse Historical Society could use the vacated Police Department building. In 2005 renovations began with the installation of the copper roof, the porch, the fence based the Sachse octagonal house and other interior work.

1948 Ahren-Fox Fire Truck: A project many years in the making took off in 2008 when the City of Sachse transferred ownership of the truck to the society. The onion shed and pad was built to house the truck and many volunteer hours were put in to restore the truck for display purposes.

Combat Veterans Moving Wall: Over Memorial Day weekend in 2017 the society was proud and honored to host a moving Vietnam Veteran Memorial Wall. After extensive fundraising, a strong partnership from the city and 100's of volunteer hours the wall was set to in place in front of the library on the city complex.

Young bought land from the Baccus Land survey and founded a school on his property. He established this cemetery when Patience died in 1847. Eleven pioneer families are represented in the 51 known graves: Abbott, Baccus, Bankston, Crenshaw, Dennard, Finley, Jackson, McConnell, McQuery, Teel and Young. Veterans buried here are Thomas Finley, who served in the War of 1812, and Jacob P. Houts and Jacob Baccus, Jr., who fought in the Civil War.
