Investigator Kenny Newton recently went above and beyond his normal scope of assigned duties during the month of August 2017 to insure that the DA investigators got Texas Commission on Law Enforcement (TCOLE) credit hours for utilizing the gun range. He had to design a course curriculum for TCOLE in order to receive the credit hours. He submitted his work and it was approved. Investigators will now receive 1 to 4 hours of credit each time they attend a gun range training day. The hours will be applied to their 2 year, 40 hour state mandated training hours. His efforts will not only help the investigators get the training hours required, but will potentially save money and time spent on training. Investigator Newton carried out this task in his usual enthusiastic and timely manner, just as he continues to add great value to our office.
